Six glimpses at Calvados

Who said Calvados was boring? On the contrary, it offers a multitude of activities! And rest assured: these must-see snippets are but the tip of the iceberg...

1. Relive History

Pay a visit to the emblematic Mémorial de Caen for a comprehensive insight into the story of the Allied Landings in Normandy and their consequences. And take a heritage tour of the same beaches, as far as Pointe du Hoc, a symbol of the fierce combat waged in the name of freedom. Delve into the emotion of the many sites of remembrance that commemorate these crucial pages in history: the Normandy American Cemetery and Memorial in Colleville-sur-Mer, the Arromanches 360 cinema, the Falaise Memorial - Civilians at war, the Juno Beach Centre in Courseulles-sur-Mer, the Battle of Normandy Memorial in Bayeux, etc.

2. Relish in its delights

Who could possibly never have heard of our camembert, pont-l'évêque and livarot cheeses, our calvados and scallops? They are among the products that have earned Calvados its international reputation - come to their region and taste for yourself! Our cheeses and ciders, our oysters and 'andouille' chitterling sausages await you, and their producers are impatient to share with you their age-old traditional know-how.

3. Did you know?

Calvados is France's third-ranking French area for the number of listed historic monuments, of which it boasts around 1,000. You absolutely must take a tour of the magnificent Bessin Châteaux (Fontaine-Henry, Colombières, etc.), or the astonishing Château de Saint-Germain de Livet in the Pays d'Auge. And many others are yours to discover: the classical Domaine de Pontécoulant in Suisse Normande, the traditional Manoir des Evêques on the Côte Fleurie coast, and the stunning Church of St. Catherine in Honfleur.

4. Follow in William the Conqueror's footsteps

Born circa 1027 in Falaise, to the south of Caen, the Duke of Normandy who became King of England was a truly fascinating figure. In Calvados, you can visit many sites indelibly marked by his life, among which, three towns in particular: Falaise, home to his imposing childhood castle; Caen, where you can admire his castle and two abbeys; Bayeux, the famous tapestry of which tells the story of his epic conquest of England.

5. Take a stroll through our parks and gardens

Ten of them have been awarded the official 'Remarkable Garden' quality label. The Jardins du Pays d'Auge in Cambremer take you on a journey through 27 different landscapes in this former nursery, whilst the gardens of the Château de Canon offer an insight into the evolution from classicism to the formal French garden, together with some more irregular 'English-style' landscaped gardens. The themed areas of the gardens of the Château de Venduvre, in turn, offer contrasting atmospheres.

6. A place for prayer

Lisieux is France's second most important place of worship after Lourdes. The Basilica is sure to astound you. You can also visit the Carmel and the Maison des Buissonnets, the childhood home of St. Thérèse of Lisieux, whose precepts are followed the world over. Another site worth a detour is towards the west of Calvados, the Basilica of Notre-Dame de la Délivrande, in Douvres-La-Délivrande.

Brand new!

Villa du Temps retrouvé

The 'Villa du Temps Retrouvé' (villa of new-found time), in Cabourg, promises to bring back to life the Belle Époque - the early 20th century, when Marcel Proust began to write the first pages of his famous work at the Grand Hôtel. This museum area will offer visitors a genuine journey through time, in the company of the illustrious author, over a discovery of the seaside resort and the Côte Fleurie coast during the emerging sea-bathing vogue that led to its development. Among the museum areas - an interpretation centre focusing on Cabourg and seafront architecture, an immersive room, a museum display area including temporary exhibitions, and a garden of 1900s inspiration. Opening is scheduled for March 2021.

Pays de Falaise

Falaise without its castle is like the sea without the waves! And whilst William the Conqueror's birthplace and childhood home looms above the surrounding valley, it is not the only monument to cast its gaze over the medieval town. Nearby, in the town centre square, a striking statue of William also relentlessly admires the region's wild and verdant relief, there where he used to roam.

Pays de Vire | Collines de Normandie

Enter Calvados' wild side, that of its hollow valleys and traditional know-how, passed on from generation to generation. In the southwesterly corner of Calvados, a natural playground for outdoor sports awaits you, some of the charms of which demand a little effort. Its gateway, Villers-Bocage, is steeped in history. Further south, Vire, the capital of the Normandy bocage, keeps watch over the surrounding area from its 13th century gate clock.

Suisse Normande

Its name is evocative of the green valleys and the vast natural decors that swathe this region, where the meanders of the Orne offer the panoramas all their splendour. It's no surprise that lovers of nature and the great outdoors have chosen the landscapes around Thury-Harcourt and Clécy to reunite their hiking, mountain biking, paragliding and canoeing activities.

Terre d'Auge

Visiting Pont-l'Évêque, is like travelling through a town from field to field, crossing bridges, strolling through gardens, following the river banks, and being surprised along your way, by a museum, an exhibition, a detail. Here, the river gently meanders, and all around legends are whispered through the ages: such is the essence of the Pays d'Auge that transpires through this mosaic-like land. On the banks of the sloping green pastures, authentic Beaumont-en-Auge is a fine example: its colourful half-timbered houses offer the village a timeless atmosphere.

Terres de Nacre

The Côte de Nacre coast stretches from the banks of the Orne to Courseulles-sur-Mer and you'll be spoilt for choice to find the whitest sandiest beach just for you. On June 1944, this sector, codenamed 'Sword' and 'Juno', saw the British, French and Canadian troops land on D-Day.

Trouville-sur-Mer

The Belle Époque charm and narrow streets of Deauville's 'twin sister' seem to conceal some well-kept secret... And as you walk along its central avenue, amidst its many fine restaurants, you can admire the hundred-year-old casino in the distance, and the splendid Cures Marines hotel and spa that stands opposite the vast sandy beach, so popular among visitors who appreciate wide, open spaces.
